

Kentucky People

LOUISVILLE Leadership Louisville

Leadership Louisville

The 2005 class of Leadership Louisville, which launched its year with a retreat in Lexington at the end of August. Leadership Louisville is a leadership development organization with a 20-year history in Louisville. Pictured are: (Row 1, from left) Jeff Hollon, David Kottak, Dan Crutcher, Tyson Gorman, Tony Taylor, Reggie Van Stockum, Keith Hackett, Allan Latts. Row 2: Cathy Zion, Lisa Motley, Becky Phillips, Carmen Hickerson, Linda Caso, Chris Johnson (president, Leadership Louisville Center), Rick Tabb (director of programs, Leadership Louisville Center), Theresa Canaday, Jean Porter, Phoebe Wood, Laura Schweitzer, Laura Lee Brown. Row 3: Lee Sapata, Shannon White, Jim Seiffert, Jim Wood, Diane Calhoun-Frenc, Cordelia Hardin, Kim Blinkhorn, Donna Perry, Martha Hasselbacher, Tracy Goff Herman, Leslie Hale, Kevin Wardell, Rita Starr, Suzanne Bergmeister, Treva Donnell, Christi Lanier-Robinson, Jack Lemmon, Sandra Frazier. Row 4: Matthew Barzun, Austin Musselman, John Walczak, Mark Carter, Doug Magee, Dow Buford, Allen Montgomery, Tyrone Tubbs, Stefan Wilson, John Voyles, Fred Williams, Todd Munson, Dan Bauer, Skip Miller, John Anders, Bob Gustafson, Tom Wine, Tom Austin, Bill Niehaus.

LEXINGTON

Tubby's Clubhouse

LFUCG

UK Head Basketball Coach Tubby Smith speaks at Lexington's Carver Community Center in August for the dedication of a high-tech classroom, funded by the Tubby Smith Foundation.

CAMPBELLVILLE

Science Connections Initiative

Campbellville University

Dr. Alan Medders, vice president for development at Campbellville University; Tom Zawacki, general manager of Toyota Motor Manufacturing Ky., Inc.; Jana Martin Kemp and Shawn Stevens, CU alumni; and Dr. Frank Cheatham, vice president for academic affairs at CU, participate in a check presentation for the Science Connections Initiative.