

Kentucky People

LEXINGTON

Stallion Art Auction

Neil Sulfer photo

The Thoroughbred Charities of America hosted its 15th annual gala charity and stallion art auction in December at Delaware-based Candy Land Farm and by audio-simulcast at Cross Gate Gallery in Lexington. Greg Ladd and Liz Harris (left), of the Cross Gate Gallery, stand with Nick Nicholson, president and CEO of Keeneland, and his wife, Susan, at the gallery during the event. The event raised more than $1.8 million dollars.

LEXINGTON

Lexington Philharmonic Ball

Bruce Reynolds, of Stites and Harbison (left); Glen Leveridge, president of Bank One in Kentucky; and Darryl Terry, of First National Bank in Lexington at the Lexington Philharmonic Ball in December at the Lexington Convention Center.

LOUISVILLE

UK Versus U of L

Above: Gov. Ernie Fletcher and First Lady Glenna Fletcher present ESPN's Dick Vitale (center) with Kentucky promotional items and a Kentucky Colonel citation at the UK and U of L game. The event was broadcast overseas to Kentucky soldiers serving in Iraq.

Top left: Gov. Ernie Fletcher and First Lady Glenna Fletcher address the crowd at Freedom Hall in Louisville before the University of Kentucky and University of Louisville basketball game on Dec. 18. UK President Lee Todd (left) and U of L President James Ramsey (right) stand at each side.

Bottom left: Gov. Ernie Fletcher and First Lady Glenna Fletcher watch the dramatic finish of the UK and U of L game at Freedom Hall in Louisville. The game, which the Wildcats won 60-58, was broadcast to U.S. troops serving in Iraq.

Courtesy: Cabinet for Economic Development