

Kentucky People

LOUISVILLE

Greater Louisville Inc.'s Annual Dinner

Courtesy GLI

At Greater Louisville Inc.'s annual dinner on Feb. 15, Bill Street (center), former president of Brown-Forman Corp., became the 17th recipient of the Gold Cup, GLI's most prestigious award honoring a lifetime of community involvement. Presenting the award to Mr. Street were (from left) Mike Harreld of PNC Bank, Ed Glasscock of Frost Brown Todd, Dave Wilkins of Doe Anderson and Steve Hlgdon of Greater Louisville Inc.

Above: Joseph Clayton (center), chairman of Sirius Satellite Radio, received the Edison Award at Greater Louisville Inc.'s annual dinner in February. The award goes to successful local natives and former area residents who maintain close ties to Louisville. Standing with him, from left, are Bellarmine University students Sara Jane Musk and Felicia Rowe; Clayton's mother, Mary Agnes Dugan; and Bellarmine student Adam Embry.

Left: Louisville Mayor Jerry Abramson (right) presents David Cordish, founder and chairman of The Cordish Company, with a Louisville Stoneware plate at Greater Louisville Inc.'s annual dinner. Cordish was the dinner's keynote speaker.

LEXINGTON

First Security Bank Seventh Anniversary

Staff photo

Jack Whitt, Becky Weatherford, Marsha Brown and First Security Bank CEO Doug Hutcherson celebrate the seventh anniversary of First Security Bank at the bank's original branch location in Lexington.