

Kentucky People

LEXINGTON Republic Bank We CARE Awards

Republic Bank & Trust Company recognized last month three Central Kentucky companies that exhibited outstanding community service with a We CARE Award. Pictured from left to right: Emcee Kevin Christopher, WLEX-TV; Dan May, Toyota Motor Manufacturing, Kentucky; Kim Sweazy, Toyota; Al Ackerman, Toyota; William Taylor, Toyota; Stacy Bearse, Blood-Horse Publications; Nancy Bearse, Blood-Horse Publications; Robert Bolsom, Blood-Horse Publications; Gretchen Sheridan, Blood-Horse Publications; Guy Huguélet, Adecco of Central Kentucky; Tracey Wilkerson, Adecco of Central Kentucky; and Steve Trager, Chairman and CEO, Republic Bank.

LOUISVILLE Mayor's International Awards

Louisville Mayor Jerry Abramson and others presented the Mayor's International Award in June to M. Annette Turner, executive director of the Office of Multicultural Ministry. The award honors organizations for their contributions to Louisville's multicultural community. Pictured from left: Ken Handmaker, managing director of Middleton Reutlinger, presenting sponsor of the awards; M. Annette Turner, executive director of the Office of Multicultural Ministry; Mayor Abramson; and Tianna Barnes of the Office of Multicultural Ministry.

FRANKFORT Energy Star Awards

In July, Education Cabinet Secretary Virginia Fox and John Davies of the Office of Energy Policy presented ENERGY STAR awards to representatives from Drakes Creek Middle School, Henry Moss Middle School, and Warren East Middle School in Warren County, as well as Isaac Shelby Elementary in Jefferson County. The award recognizes efforts taken to conserve energy in those schools. Pictured from left: Davies; Mike Mulheirn, JCPS executive director for facilities and transportation; Randall Jackson, WCPS director of districtwide student and support services; Jay Wilson, WCPS energy manager; Charles Rector, WCPS director of maintenance; and Secretary Fox.