Select Web Design Firms in Kentucky

AN informal statewide survey finds that, despite the downturn in technology companies, a large number of Web site design firms exist across Kentucky. Some are one-person operations, others are divisions of larger advertising firms and employ dozens of people. Few have been in Web site design work for more than seven years.

Because of the reliance of Web site design on a combination of technical and creative skills, the nature of the business can be transitory, yet combines well with firms offering a range of services, from advertising to Web site hosting.

Though by no means exhaustive, the following list is meant to give the reader an idea of the geographic scope of this industry in Kentucky and a sampling of who's in business in this sector.
